The Glamorgan was a wreck. The Republic took off John A. May, first officer, W. A. Swarbrick, third officer, Wm. Palmer, boatswain, J. Gillard, carpenter, J. Whallen, Theo. Anderson, C. Anderson, E. Anderson, G. Bohle, C. Horn and John Morgan.

Washington.

Washington, 26.—At an informal conference of the democratic members of the house, this morning, it was agreed that the democrats must oppose the amendments to the rules by which they proposed to send the Senate tariff bill to a conference committee, but the general sentiment was opposed to resorting to filibustering for the purpose of defeating it.

The navy department is preparing a list of the naval officers on duty at Washington, and the length of time they have been here. Officers who have resided here a long time, seem to feel that a general clearing out will be the result.

The secretary of state has upon application of the British government, sent a warrant for arrest of P. H. Sheridan, suspected of complicity in the Phoenix park murder, and it has been placed in the hands of West, British minister. Sheridan is supposed to be in New York City. In case he is arrested, he will be taken before a United States commissioner, who will decide whether he is subject to extradition under the warrant. Should he decide in the affirmative, the department of state will issue the necessary extradition papers.

The Senate committee on patents to-day gave a hearing upon the charges of corruption which have been filed by patent practitioners who are opposing Dr. Robt. G. Dyrenforth, Illinois, to be assistant commissioner of patents. Dr. Dyrenforth is now one of the judges on the patent board of appeals, and was formerly primary examiner of patents. The charges relate to his administration as examiner, and are specific in character, alleging bribery and tampering with manuscript in cases pending before him.

XLVII. CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE.

Washington, 26.—Grover presented the credentials of Dolph, his successor, as senator from Oregon. Garland, from the committee on judiciary, reported a bill to punish false personation of officers and employees of the United States, by a fine of not more than $3,000 or imprisonment not longer than three years or both in the discretion of the court. The bill passed.

A resolution was adopted requesting the House of Representatives to return the tariff bill in order that certain clerical errors might be corrected.

The House bill to prevent the importation of adulterated or spurious teas passed.

The committee on education and labor was authorized to continue its inquiry into the relations between labor and capital, etc., and to print testimony.

Van Wyck called up the resolution requesting the President to communicate any information in his possession touching the alleged agreement of the ministers of Great Britain, France and Italy, at Lima, to make a joint effort to bring about peace between Chili and Peru and to inform the Senate whether the minister of the United States had been instructed to accept mediation of the ministers of European powers in support of the resolution, and it was adopted without dissent.

Vest called up his resolution for the appointment of a committee of five senators to examine into the condition of the Yellowstone National Park. In the course of his remarks he read a letter received by him from the secretary of the interior, saying: "I have determined not to take any action in the matter of the lease to Hatch & Co., until Congress shall take action on your bill; at least not until the close of the session. If Congress shall take no action on the subject I shall feel inclined to execute a lease in strict accordance with the views expressed by your committee in their report made to the Senate at the request of Gorman." A list of the directors of the Yellowstone National Park Improvement Company was read.

Among the directors are Rufus Hatch, Roscoe Conkling, Hugh J. Hastings, William Fullerton, John R. Brady, A. G. Vanderpool and Frederick E. Church, all of New York.

The morning hour expired while Vest was speaking, and he proposed that the unfinished business should be set aside in order to dispose of his resolution, which he said would take but little time.

Windom said the resolution would probably take more time than the senator from Missouri supposed. There were two sides to the question, and he proposed to demonstrate that the secretary of the interior had acted wisely in undertaking to make the lease; that was the better way of preserving the park; and that parties making improvements there are acting in accordance with their contract with the secretary of the interior.

Cameron insisted upon proceeding with the unfinished business.

The bill to pay Fourth of July claims was taken up and passed.

Edmunds moved to take up the Utah bill.

Mitchell moved to proceed to the consideration of the pension bills on the calendar. Agreed to.

Several bills granting pensions to individuals was passed. Among them bills granting pensions of $50 a month to the widows of Rear Admiral Beaumont and the late Major General Warren.

Mitchell moved to take up the House bill granting an increased pension to one-armed and one-legged soldiers.

Williams moved to take up the pleuro-pneumonia bill, a bill, he said, in which the people generally are more interested than in any other before the House this session.

Ingalls—"And one involving more monstrous and untenable propositions than any other."

Williams' motion was lost.

The increase of pensions bills was taken up.

HOUSE.

Washington, 26.—The Senate amendments to the District of Columbia appropriation bill and legislative appropriation bill were non-concurred in, and conference committees were appointed.

Caswell submitted the conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill. He explained that the conference committee had retained on the bill the clause appropriating $185,000 for special mail facilities, struck out the clause limiting the compensation to be paid for mail transportation of subsidized roads, and fixed October 1, 1883, as the date when 3-cent postage shall go into effect. These were the only important items of disagreement.

An engrossed copy of the Senate amendments to the internal revenue bill, was returned to the Senate for correction. The House then resumed consideration of the conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill.

Anderson said the Senate was taking a position that it would defeat the postoffice bill rather than that the light of a little bit of God Almighty's justice should flash down on these railroad companies; he hoped the conference report would be voted down and the Senate conferees informed they had to back down or would get no postoffice appropriation bill.

Dunn opposed the report and expressed the hope that the headlight of the locomotive would not always continue to be a lamp to the foot-path of conference committees. He trusted the time would come when the people could have a Congress which could not find how to serve them. The motion was agreed to and the report was lost—yeas 114, nays 113, and a further conference was ordered.

Hiscock, chairman of the committee on appropriations, reported the deficiency appropriation bill. Ordered printed and recommitted.

The "pound" rule then went into operation.

Rice, under instructions from the committee on foreign affairs, called up the Senate joint resolution providing for the termination of articles numbered from 18 to 25, and articles 30 of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, concluded at Washington May 8th 1871. Passed without debate. The hour then expired.

The internal revenue bill with the Senate amendments, returned by the Senate, was taken to the speaker's table and ordered printed.

Bills introduced and referred: By Rosecrans, for the retirement of General George W. Getty, with the rank and pay of major general. By Townsend, a bill to prevent the importation of wine from Germany until some means are provided to prevent the importation of deleterious wines from that country. By Robinson, New York, a resolution calling on the secretary of state for information as to whether the officers of the British steamship Republic, within a few days past held an emigrant under arrest until they sent for the British consul, and held a pretended trial before the British consul within the territory of the United States, before allowing the said emigrant to land; also a joint resolution for the relief of England, the benefit of Ireland and the glory of the United States. (Laughter.)

It recites at length the present condition of Ireland, declares her people are panting for republicanism, asserts that Ireland is more necessary to the United States than much of her present territory, and would rival the great state of New York in wealth, intelligence and culture, and requests the secretary of state to open communication with the government of Great Britain to obtain its consent for the accession of Ireland to the United States, by purchase or otherwise.

Notwithstanding the fact that this was the last Monday in the session, there were ninety-four measures introduced under the call of states, under special order.

Some unimportant bills were passed, and the speaker recognized Reed, who called up the resolution reported by him on Saturday, from the committee on rules.

Blackburn raised a point of order against it.

Carlisle raised a question of consideration, and then Randall demanded the yeas and nays. The house determined—yeas, 134, nays, 126, to consider Reed's resolution.

Reed demanded the previous question.

Blackburn raised a point of order against the resolution, and prefaced his argument with a disclaimer of addressing his remarks in a futile effort to describe and fity characterize the effort which the committee on rules had embodied in the resolution in order to escape the strait into which the majority had been driven. That question would come up if the majority saw fit in its oft expressed magnanimity to allow a discussion of a proposition as radical and revolutionary as now the one presented. At that time he would ask to be heard on a merit permit.

Justice Promised.

Milwaukee, 26.—The grand jury in the Newhall House case agreed this afternoon on a true bill against Schiller, former lessee of the bar room in the hotel, indicting him for arson. The indictment contains three counts: the first charges the prisoner with wilfully, maliciously and feloniously setting fire to and burning the Newhall House, during the night of January 10th, causing the death of Thomas B. Elliott, David G. Power, Robert Hoare, Kate Connors, Lizzie Angeline and Libbie A. Childs. No other victims are mentioned. The other repeats the accusation in a different form. Schiller was taken from the jail to the court at 4 o'clock. After reading the indictment, the prisoner answered the question in a firm tone, "Not guilty, sir." The court fixed the bail at $10,000, and the prisoner was taken back to jail. Owing to the late hour bail was not obtainable to-night, but will be tomorrow. The grand jury is still in session considering the responsibility of the owners and manager of the hotel. It is believed indictments for manslaughter will be returned against Nash, Antisell and night clerk Delaney. The labors of the grand jury will not be finished before next week.
